Ultimate Durability Marine Windows

Cornell-Carr has been producing marine windows for military and commercial applications since the 1950's. During that time we have developed a reputation for producing the most durable windows available.

Marine windows face unique challenges – the corrosive action of seawater, the impact of high seas and the extreme temperature exposures – which require special attention to the finest details of design and construction. Cornell-Carr's over 50 years of experience building custom marine windows provides the buyer with the assurance that their windows will meet or exceed the required specifications.

Cornell-Carr is the primary supplier of marine windows to the US military. Cornell-Carr windows are installed on all of the US military's major ship designs including:

- CVN
- LPD/LHA
- DDG 51 & 1000 Classes
- USCG NSC
- LCAC
- MLP
- T-AKE

International naval applications include:

- Australian Air Warfare Destroyer
- Spanish F-100 Class Frigate
- Canadian DDH 280 Class Destroyers

In addition to military windows, Cornell-Carr produces top-grade commercial windows. When shipyards require a superior quality product, designed and produced to outlast the life of the vessel, they turn to Cornell-Carr.

Commercial vessels include:

- Ferries: Staten Island (New York), Casco Bay (Maine), Long Island Sound (Connecticut/New York)
- Tankers: Alaska Class
- Boeing Jetfoil
- Fire Boats
- Circle Line (New York)
- Work Boats and Fishing Boats of all shapes and sizes

Built to ABS and Military Specifications

Fully Customizable – if it can be done, we can do it.

Testing Certifications held for major military applications
